The eyes of every salt water racing fan in the United States and Australia are on the America's Cup races now being run off Newport

The eyes are there in spirit, that is. We tried last time to get pictures of the races from the shore with no luck. Knowing better now, we have put the imagination to work to bring to the cover a picture of these magnificent racing machines in action. This is a wash drawing by D. C. Jason.

NEW GATE AT LIGHTHOUSE

Visitors to Mattapoisett Veterans' Memorial Park now pass through this newly completed gate bounded on either side by a stone wall. The gate which was designed by Mr. Raymond Winslow was built by a local builder, Antone Andrews, who was assisted by his father and brother. A public spirited Mattapoisett citicitizen donated the stone. The Veterans' Memorial Park Committee, comprised of Lester Crampton, Frederick LeBaron, Alfred Faria, Martin Bauer and Raymond Winslow, have taken many steps this summer to make the Park a fine recreation area. Their efforts have been backed up by many other residents of the town. John Denham has done a fine job of cleaning up the Park. Pimental and Borges trucked the stone to Ned's Point for the building of the gate. The roof of the old oil house has been restored and the stone walls painted. The Mattapoisett Lions Club completed the cabana which makes a shaded resting spot complete with seats. The long neglected Ned's Point area has come a long way in a short period of time due to the interest and efforts of many people who pooled their efforts. When finished the gate will bear a plaque with the Veterans' Memorial Park name which is to be donated by the Florence Eastman Post of Mattapoisett. This is a wonderful start on this project to improve the finest recreation spot in town. Further development may include stone jetties which, if extended into the ocean to trap sand, could make this one of the best beaches in town. The clean water and large sand bars off the lighthouse make it potentially the best new swimming area readily available to Mattapoisett. All that is needed is a beach. The small stone jetty at the foot of the road has trapped enough sand to indicate that two larger jetties on each side would allow the sea to create a fine beach. This and other improvements are under consideration. Mrs. Alexander Barrie is donating her services to decorating the Park with flowers.

Veterans' Memorial Park will be a living memorial to Mattapoisett servicemen. Local citizens and organizations are pooling time and talent to make it an unusually useful and attractive park.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

By Howard B. Sprague, M.D.

Is the stress accompanying the pace of urban American life a major cause of heart disease?

Although many persons believe so, the evidence indicates otherwise.

It is possible to suffer a heart attack, and death, from the effects of anger, fear or anxiety, of course--with a major "if"-- if one is harboring unsuspected coronary heart disease.

But is modern life actually any more stressful than that of our forebears who emerged from the cave to the split-level home over the centuries? Can the strains of the office in 1962 be compared with validity to those of the jungle? And how does one explain the fact that Trappist monks, who lead lives of placidity, frugality and lean diet have not been spared from artery degeneration which sets the stage for heart attacks?

My inclination is to believe that the role of inborn metabolic errors weighs more heavily than the environment in the causing of heart disease. Indeed, if it were possible to capture that will-o-the-wisp, a satisfactory test to define individual liability to coronary disease, I venture to say that non-susceptible persons could eat and work as they wish and indulge in the more common vices without revenge at the hands of the heart.

Each of us has his personal reaction to stress, and I seriously doubt it is predictable by any presently-available test. Attempts to define coronary-prone people on the basis of emotional reactions of known coronary patients compared with "controls" of so-called normal individuals seem to me to be unrealistic.

Stress cannot be defined by the dimensions of the load; though there are relationships between some heart attacks and a specified "stress" event, it does not seem that sustained stress over a long period has any great significance. One is led to wonder why, even if the role of the emotions in heart trouble is assumed, the continuation of such stresses--or even an increase--fails to produce a second heart attack in an impressive number of patients.

The physician may be credited with saving his patient from further destruction but who among us does not recall men who disregarded all his advice and lived merrily on despite the direst of predictions.

In my own experience it appears that the man who recovers well enough to return to his usual work does best if he stops smoking, loses weight, and increases his physical activity. I use ability to follow such a regime as a test of the patient's motivation to recover fully.

Dr. Harry J. Johnson, president of the Life Extension Foundation, found that often the healthiest men worked hardest and longest, had the most stress and rather enjoyed it.

I believe the human male develops artery degeneration or clotting imbalance if he is hereditarily inclined toward it and the environment of diet, tobacco, physical inertia, long hours of work and other factors brought by socio-economic stress, are operative.

Coronary disease is too non-specific in its victims to be the result of a single cause, and its attribution purely to stress is too easy and popular a theory to be lightly accepted by medical science.

The American public is constantly fueled with anxiety about its stresses. It is encouraged to swaddle itself securely from any form of worry-- an unrealistic way of life if one ever existed.

As a result, certain occupations are becoming classified as stressful and automatic pension perquisites follow. Laws are passed inhibiting the hiring of older workers, and lawyers have a field day. To me this smacks of decadence.

One can only hope that coronary disease will prove more amenable to changes in the enviroment short of a return to the cradle for, as Rene Dubois says, "to grow in the midst of dangers is the fate of the human race, because it is the law of the spirit."

NEW PRIVATE MEDICAL PLAN STARTS OCTOBER 1

A new development in medical plans for people over 65 in Massachusetts is set to start on October 1st. A one-month enrollment period for Mass 65 - a new low cost medical plan for the elderly will begin. This health plan is underwritten by 40 Health Insurance firms, and an estimated 18,000 insurance brokers and agents are expected to handle Mass 65, which will be operated from headquarters in Boston.

Approximately 50,000 Massachusetts' residents are expected to join Mass 65. This plan for people, 65 and over, costs only $9 monthly and requires no physical examination.

While designed as a backstop for the common hospital-surgical coverage, Mass 65 also offers a basic coverage for $8.50 month.

The program is technically non-profit. Any proceeds accumulating during the years will be returned to Mass 65 and not to the underwriting firms.

Evidence that such a plan is needed has been accumulating through the years and highlighted during the recent medicare controversy. Mass 65 has been under study for some time and it was decided to go ahead with it regardless of how Congress voted on the medicare bill. Mass 65 is mainly a backstop - a measure to deal with the extreme situation.

The basic policy of Mass 65 is similar to Blue Cross-Blue Shield in concept. It affords hospital room and board expenses up to $15 a day for 31 days, miscellaneous hospital charges up to $150, and surgeon's fees, according to a schedule, up to $300.

The major medical plan of Mass 65 pays 100 percent of hospital room and board up to $18 a day, 80 percent of charges for hospital services and supplies, up to $500 for a surgeon, depending on a schedule.

Also, 100 percent for charges by a convalescent home for services, supplies and room board up to $56 a week for the first three weeks, and $45 weekly for the next 13.

Also, 80 percent of charges for care and treatment by each doctor up to $6 a day, charges of registered graduate nurses up to $18 a day, and charges for drugs and medicines obtained by written prescription of a doctor.

The stay in a convalescent home must immediately follow hospital confinement of at least five days.

Details of the plan will be announced in a publicity campaign. Local agents and brokers are also being instructed on the details of Mass 65.

Mass 65 has the support of medical societies in the State and also hospital administrators.

The Massachusetts Legislature has authorized the participating insurance firms to form Massachusetts 65 Health Insurance Association as a joint venture.

OYSTER BEDS NOT TO OPEN OCT. 1

Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen announce to the residents of the Towns of Mattapoisett, Marion and Rochester that the areas for the taking of oysters will not be opened for oystering on October 1st. The reason for the delay in the opening of these oyster beds is that the oysters were taken from the "creek", and planted in these areas, and have not been examined by the State Department of Public

WANNA BET?

The average motorist who thinks that his brakes are dependable should be prepared to bet his life on it, according to the Automobile Legal Association.

In announcing the results of a recent survey by Motor Magazine, assistant safety directory T. R. O'Brien pointed out that one out of every two cars on the read today is badly in need of brake repair. The research team, covering a sample of cities from coast to coast, inspected over 500 cars in garages and service stations. Only cars that were brought in for work other than brake service were checked, and in every case the car owner had no reason to suspect that his brakes needed repair.

"But the inspection proved otherwise," O'Brien noted. "Not only did half the cars need brake repairs, but many had more than one defect in the braking system. Among those needing repairs 76 per cent had worn brake linings, 50 per cent had worn brake drums, and 44 per cent had leaking wheel cylinders. Any of these defects would be sufficient to throw a car into a heart-stopping skid, and a driver into a premature grave."
